

BRIGHAM AND WOMEN'S HOSPITAL

Department of Emergency Medicine

Fellowship in Health Policy Research and Translation

The Fellowship in Health Policy Research and Translation trains future leaders in emergency medicine to design, conduct, and translate innovative research and practice changes into health policy. Fellows divide their time between mentored policy-related research projects, class work, a policy practicum, and clinical work in the Emergency Department of our nationally recognized hospital.

Fellows will have the opportunity to earn a Master's Degree from the Harvard School of Public Health or Kennedy School of Government. The program is designed for those seeking a career at the intersection of health policy and emergency care. The fellowship is two years.

The curriculum is tailored to the fellow's interests and is divided into five areas: 1) Quality and safety, 2) Health policy training, 3) Health policy practicum, 4) Health economics, and 5) Research methods and grant writing.

Website: emhp.bwh.harvard.edu

Successful applicants must be board eligible in emergency medicine. Applications are accepted on a rolling basis through October 27, 2017. Interviews will be offered on November 3, 2017 (potential make-up date, November 15, 2017). Applicants must also apply separately to the Harvard School of Public Health (Deadline December 1, 2017). See application form & description on the website for details.

Required documents:

- Application form, letter of interest, CV, personal statement
- Three letters of recommendation (at least one from residency director or current chairman)

For more information please contact:

Scott G. Weiner, MD, MPH

Fellowship Director

Department of Emergency Medicine

Brigham & Women's Hospital

75 Francis Street, Boston, MA 02115

nchaisson@partners.org

Office (617) 732-4727 | Fax (617) 264-6848

<http://emhp.bwh.harvard.edu>